

Media Power and Democratization in Brazil: TV Globo and the Dilemmas of Political Accountability (Routledge Advances in Internationalizing Media Studies)

In this book, Porto analyzes the role of TV Globo in the democratization of Brazil. TV Globo, one of the worlds largest media conglomerates, has a dominant position in Brazils communications landscape. It also exports telenovelas to more than 130 countries and has established joint ventures with transnational media conglomerates. Beginning in the mid-1990s, TV Globo began a process of opening, replacing its authoritarian model of journalism with a more independent reporting style. Representations of Brazil in prime time telenovelas have also shifted. Given this shift, Porto considers some of the following questions: What explains these changes in Brazils most powerful media company? How are they related to processes of political and social democratization? How did TV Globos opening affect Brazils emerging democracy, especially in terms of the quality of political accountability mechanisms? Porto uses the Brazilian case of TV Globo to analyze the larger links between democratization, civil society mobilization, and media change in transitional societies.
