

The Chicago Lutheran Theological Seminary: Maywood, Illinois (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from The Chicago Lutheran Theological Seminary: Maywood, Illinois Our Seminary's Missionary Record. This cosmopolitan school of the prophets, the only one west of Ohio that teaches the faith of Luther exclusively in the language of Washington, is still doing its unselfish missionary work at the gate-way of the great West. Its professors and teachers are too busy to write much about their school. They realize that they have a great work to do. In this critical transition period our Seminary must do its part to lead and to point the way across the language bridge. She blazes the path not for her own sons alone, but for the sons of other institutions also. Any one who will carefully read the report of the Board of English Home Missions read before the late meeting of the General Council will see what an important part the men of the Chicago Seminary are doing in that great work. With the present scarcity of men for the great and growing work, let any one ask what could the General Council do in the West without the Chicago Seminary? But there is much English mission work carried on in the West for the General Council which is not supported by its board. In Indiana there are young, vigorous and promising English missions in Alexandria, Mishawaka, South Bend, Syracuse, Napanee, and Lafayette, all started and carried on by Chicago Seminary men.
